

For nearly two decades, Merrilee May has been figuring and calculating for people and businesses on a small remote island nation in the Pacific Ocean.

May, who was back in town for the holidays, reflected on the move that she made nearly 18 years ago that changed her life.

For complete story, see the Jan. 9 issue of the News-Register.